

Coeur de Lion: Arrival, Parking, Settling in

This is the one document you'll need to have with you (on your smart phone or pad) when you land. All other important documents available on the web.

Most guests fly into Toulouse, so we'll begin there—but, except for the first section below, the rest of this information applies to everyone.

Driving from Toulouse airport:

Note: You'll need Euros for some of the toll roads. (Get them from an ATM at the airport). Some tollbooths may accept debit/credit cards (which you should have cleared with your bank/credit card company before you left), but some won't.

If you are entering a tollbooth and do not yet have a "ticket", you will push a button and the booth will dispense one. When you exit the toll road, you will insert your ticket, after which you will pay with coins or bills. There are no people in the booths. If you need assistance, you can find a button to push and a live person will come on the speaker and help you. They often will speak English. They are patient.

Unless you have already bought supplies, you will most likely want to stop in Cahors to buy things you'll need for your first days in the house. And if you arrive a day early and spend Friday night in Cahors, you can visit the great outdoor market on Saturday morning (also repeated on Wednesday if you miss it). See below for information about Cahors and shopping.

Stopping for groceries and supplies before your arrive:

The cleaners keep the house supplied with toilet paper and hand soap (the bottled kind). Otherwise it's hard to guarantee anything else—at Carrefour in Cahors or at any supermarché, you may want to stop and your way to the village and pick up oil, vinegar, coffee, paper towels, shampoo, lotion, any and all other household or bathroom items you may need. Once you are in the house you can assess whether there are additional needs. (Usually there is dishwasher and laundry soaps, but if not you'll need to get those and/or replace them if they run out.)

Also, make sure you have something to eat for Saturday night (or have Penni deliver a meal, or plan on a restaurant visit). Sunday morning you can go to the wonderful Limogne outdoor market and buy the cheeses, breads, roast chicken, olives, fish, fruits, wines, vegetables, condiments, etc. that you'll want to have on hand. There is also a supermarché for sundries in Limogne but it closes around noon on Sunday.

If you come from Toulouse on the road into Cahors (the "Route de Toulouse"), you will find the following stores within a few blocks of each other, on the outskirts of town, before you cross the bridge and enter the central city.

- NOTE: Be prepared to bring or buy a good plastic shopping bag (less than a Euro) when you check out of any store. In most stores, there are no free plastic bags. On subsequent trips, take them with you.

- NOTE: Have a one or half Euro coin on hand to "rent" a shopping cart in the parking lot to take inside. You get your euro back when you put the cart back. (If you don't have one, the store will give you a chip that works.) There is a slot on the handle of the cart where you push the Euro coin in. As it goes in, it pushes the lock mechanism out and liberates your cart from the pack.

Carrefour –the main supermarket, on the left. Should be open 9 AM - 8PM daily. It has pretty much everything-- from toilet paper to fine wine. If coming from Toulouse, Carrefour will be one of the first stores on your left as you enter Cahors.

Thiriet Glaces et Surgelés - a fascinating store, on the left. This place sells deluxe frozen food (an oxymoron anywhere except France) at reasonable prices. They have everything: entrees, vegetables, hors d'oeuvres, ice cream. It is gourmet French cooking, reasonably priced, and VERY easy to warm up at home for everyone for dinner. Friends have enjoyed the moussaka, the scallops with mussels, and the risotto with mushrooms. For 1 Euro, they sell a perfect bag for keeping frozen things frozen as you drive on. Although their croissants (the ones specifically made with butter) are excellent, they are no match for the croissants and coffee at the top of the village. But if you sleep late and miss those croissants, you can pull some of these from the freezer.

Other Stores in Cahors:

But ("boot") - next to Carrefour's, good for electronics, appliances and housewares.

Weldom - hardware store with household items. It will be on your left on "Route de Toulouse" as you approach Cahors. Be sure to go downstairs to the basement to shop if you cannot find what you want on the main floor.

Gifi – sort of like Target and Pier One Imports

M. Bricolage - hardware and housewares store

Brico Marche - hardware and housewares store

Jardinere - garden store

Store Hours:

Most retail shops close between 12-2PM. In addition, many stores are closed on Mondays and/or Sundays. Plan in advance. Big Box stores like l'Eclerc do not close at noon.

Arriving at the Village:

A map (Michelin #337; buy on Amazon or in the Food/Gas stops along the Auto Route) is preferable to GPS sometimes. Road signage is quite good in France.

If you don't mind adding 10 minutes to your drive from Cahors, set your GPS to take you to the North side of the river (from Vers to Bouzies to Tour de Faure) –it's a lovely drive. At the roundabout in Tour de Faure, you'll bear right and cross the one-lane bridge and drive up the hill toward the village.

If your GPS takes you to the South side of the river, you will arrive at the top of the village. Stay to the right, on the main road (don't enter the village proper) and drive down all the way past the village (the village will be on your left), down to the first big public parking lot on the right (by the way, this lot is also the place where you will be recycling bottles and glass), then turn around and follow the photos below. If you've arrived from the North side of the river, you'll cross the bridge from Tour de Faure and drive up towards the village, passing the large public parking lots (one on the right, the other on the left) and follow the photos below.

(Whichever way you arrive, the following directions/photos will take you from those large public parking lots below the village, first to the house to unload your belongings, then back around to the main road and down to the [hidden] resident's parking lot.)

Starting from near the large public parking lots below the village, you'll pass these signs in this order as you wind your way up the hill.

Get ready for a right turn....

....bear right here. (See the red 'do not enter' sign—you will enter here!)
You cannot see the Ancient Gate yet but this is where to turn!

The Ancient Gate will come into view. Go slowly through the Gate, careful of wide-eyed visitors. You are looking for the 4th house on the right.

You'll drive up to the 4th house on the right, stop the car, and get the key from the lock box. (Lock box is on the right side of the house.)

Unlock the door, unpack your car.

FINDING THE KEY

The key to Coeur de Lion is in a lockbox on the right (downhill) side of the house. The combination is 3577.

To close the box it must also be set to that combination.

Please, always leave the key in the box when you leave the house, in case of emergencies, etc.

Unloading the Car:

The village street is single lane, and there may be lots of pedestrians. Drive carefully up to the house, park, get the key from the lockbox, open the front door and unload your baggage and groceries. Cars exiting will wait for you to unload and should allow you to drive forward to back into a spot and turn around.

Remember, after unloading, the best way to turn around is either to back into an empty parking space and turn around or drive uphill and find a space to back in and turn around.

You may want someone outside the car to guide you as back around, as the street is very narrow. (This may be your first adventure! Take your time, relax.)

Parking: (Remember, parking is not allowed within the village proper) These are directions from the house after you've turned around. (If driving up from below the village without going to the house, start with the 4th photo below.)

Leaving through the Gate.

Drive downhill to red sign.

Turn left at sign (right if coming from below village)

(A close-up of sign where you turn.)

At fork, turn left, follow "Acces Village" sign

Go left past the Spider Web gate.

At this fork, bear right.

Find a place to park.

Walk to the corner of the parking lot.

Climb stairs.

Walk past mailboxes.

Walk through the Medieval Gate and, in a couple hundred yards on your right, voila! Bienvenue.

Recycling—very important:

The bins for recycling (paper and plastic only) and garbage are near the Ancient Gate.

The large green bin for recycling bottles and glass is in the lower parking lot on the right.

Important Basic Information:

The Essential Guest Information binder at the house has more complete information on the operation of the appliances, how to take care of problems that may arise, emergency phone numbers, names of neighbors and shopkeepers, etc. etc. Please glance through the Essential Guest Information pdf (on the website) before you leave, and refer to it once you've arrived at the house. No need to print it out.

Arrival time is 4 p.m. or later. (After dark, you'll need your smartphone's flashlight.)

Departure time is 10 a.m.

The internet code (all CAPS, no spaces) is 6974 1F76 9FCA 4C13 E76A 5AFE A2

The lock box code is 3577. Set it at that number to close it too. Always put the key back in the lock box after use; it may be needed for an emergency or otherwise.

The house phone number is 011 33 565 23 50 40. If called from within region –05 65 23 50 40. Outgoing calls to the U.S. from the house are free—dial 00 1 + area code + number

We get occasional ant invasions, usually around the front or back doors—there's spray under the kitchen sink, but a rag with vinegar is better and safer. Arachnophobes are safe: we do see spider webs (they get spun quickly) but we rarely see an actual spider.

Last summer a bat flew in the window—we did our research. These are NOT the rabies-carrying American bats. In fact, these bats are protected by law. They eat mosquitoes, they have incredible sonar, they will not touch you. They will eventually fly back out of open windows, faster if you darken the room. Or just ignore them.

In France, electricity is 220-240 volts (in America it is 110 volts). Do not use American appliances unless they are rated up to 240 volts (computers usually are). You will also need a plug adapter since the French outlets are different.

The Post Office is towards the top of the village—open 9-12 weekdays, except Wednesdays.

The ATM is located in a small stone building at the top of the village on the main road.

Neighbors

Sylvie Zade-Routier lives about three houses from (inside) the medieval gate, on the left. A fascinating person, she spends the off-season in Spain, and she speaks English fluently.

Ann Lokey lives about four houses from the Ancient gate, on the left. She spends half the season in Seattle, but do find her and say hello in April, May, September, and October.

Francis Vinel lives about five houses from the gate on the left— he had a stroke many years ago and does not speak well, but is very friendly, and you'll often find him walking the street.

Marie-Francoise and Jean-Pierre Grenier live in the gorgeous La Pelissaria on the right, two houses from the gate. Lovely, friendly, worldly people—Jean-Pierre speaks English.

Finn Foens, Martine Tulet and teenaged daughter MaryLou are neighbors in first house on left from the medieval gate. Lovely folks.

Jackie and Pierre-Yves drive the village maintenance truck and take care of many of the public chores. They do not speak English, but they are friendly and helpful souls.

Spending time in Cahors:

Cahors is a lovely little city, with some excellent shops, cafes, and markets. If you arrive on Friday, you may want to stay at the Hotel Chartreuse, a very nice, relatively inexpensive, and perfectly located hotel on the river just a short walking distance to downtown.

The fabulous Saturday market is open until 12 noon, and it is repeated on Wednesday. After you cross the bridge over the River Lot), you should be on Rue de Gambetta. The open market is off the main route, back in the neighborhood a couple of blocks, on the right side of the Rue de Gambetta. Walk from the hotel, or park in one of the public lots—"Amphitheater" on the left.

If spending extra time in, or returning later to, Cahors, a visit to Pont Valentre is a must-- the best-preserved fortified Medieval bridge in existence. You can walk to the bridge from the city center (or the hotel), a lovely 20 minute stroll. By car, from the market, drive back down the Rue de Gambetta toward the River. Before the bridge, turn Right from the roundabout onto the road along the river. There is sometimes a Saturday brocante market on this road on the right nearby: L'ancien a Valentre. It consists of stalls both inside and outside the Municipal Hall. Amazing stuff.

If you are in the city center between 12 and 2 and if you are hungry, find a nice restaurant nearby for lunch. The restaurant Cuisine Cote Sud has been recommended as "the best place for lunch" in Cahors. Le Marché is a little fancier, and also highly recommended. There are many other choices too. Or you can buy some delicious sandwiches at one of the sandwich shops on the main street (there is one towards the roundabout) and take them to Pont Valentre for a little picnic outing. There are benches and grass to sit on.

After lunch, you might enjoy visiting the Tourist Information Bureau which will be on the left as you drive uphill on Rue de Gambetta. It is excellent. Or go into the wine bar next door ("Wine Malbec" I think is the name) and taste Malbecs. Leave Cahors by about 4:00 to get to St Cirq Lapopie by 4:30 PM. It's a 20-30 minute drive (depending on whether you drive like the French or the Americans).

Please read through the Essential Guest Information pdf (and refer to it often) on the website for all the essential information on living in the house, use of appliances, necessary tasks, and the final checklist for getting ready to leave.
